PRICE FIVE CENTS

POSTPONE APPEALS ON ASSESSMENT

Solicitor Says He Received County Notice Too Late

Narberth's solicitor, Henry Frye, has advised Borough Councilmen that they postpone their appeals against reductions made on five properties.

He said the Borough received notice of the reduction too late from the Montgomery County Board of Assessments and Revision of Taxes to make the appeals. The law allows only 60 days after the reductions are made for the filing of appeals. The Borough received the notice within 60 days but there was not time enough to bring the matter before the council.

Properties involved are the Lakeview Apartments at 224-226 Haverford Ave. and the Narberth Bridge Garage.

After councilmen had discussed their assessment difficulties Walter Fox, councilman, made this recommendation which was approved:

"I recommend that the Borough solicitor be instructed to consider the matter of taking steps to make mandatory publicity of the proceedings of the Board of Revision for taxes and that copies of all notifications of decisions be sent to property owners in the Borough."

Councilmen said they had no way of telling what changes had been made in assessments until the Borough reviewed its tax duplicate. They suggested that a little cooperation from the Montgomery County assessment board would eliminate the trouble.

Frye represented the Borough and Roland Fleer, the Narberth School Board in the action. Fleer, is also president of council.

Love Will Tell Why Jealous Pigeons Fly Faster

Charles J. Love, newspaperman, pigeon breeder and exponent of the new discovery that love makes a difference in how fast a pigeon returns home, will speak at a meeting of the Lower Merion Rod and Gun Club Wednesday night in the American Legion Hall of the Community Building, Narberth.

His topic will be "Pigeons—War and Peace."

A student of pigeons for a quarter of a century Love will explain the recent experiments in which a mating rival is dangled before the eyes of the carrier pigeon to make her fly faster. What the handler does is to let the carrier see another bird being placed in the cage with her mate before she departs on her journey. Then, the pigeon authorities say, she returns in double-quick time to see what is happening in the nest.

Love has charge of the Evening Bulletin Pigeon News Service. He has developed a strain of birds which is being used to carry films and messages of war. He is going to demonstrate what his pigeons can do at the meeting.

Neighborhood Club Dinner Scheduled For November 23

The annual dinner of the Neighborhood Club of Bala-Cynwyd, will be held Tuesday evening, November 23, at the Bala Golf Club. An interesting program and dinner has been arranged, and the committee promises there will be no speeches.

Form Group To Conserve All Critical Resources

The first meeting to organize a committee to direct the conservation of critical resources in this section was held last Saturday at the Terminal Building in 69th St., Upper Darby.

Representatives of seven nearby municipalities attend and elected Merritt H. Taylor, president of the Red Arrow Lines, chairman, and Harry Fritchman, secretary of Haverford Township, secretary.

Charles M. Dill, Manoa commissioner, represented Haverford Twp. at the meeting and Lower Merion Township was represented by Walter Hammonds, East Bryn Mawr commissioner. Narberth Borough will be invited to send a representative to future meetings.

BORO BOYS TAME YELLOW JACKETS

Break Three-Game Slump in Pop Warner Conference

After suffering three straight losses in the Pop Warner Conference, the Narberth Boys Club varsity eleven won their second game of the season by defeating the Oaklane Yellow Jackets, 13-0.

The blue and white gridders began hitting their stride early but it was not until the second quarter that they scored. Then Narberth took the ball on the 50-yard stripe and with Cappelli, Cantigalli and Sperazo carrying they marched to Oakland's 20-yard line. Here Ed Larkin flipped a beautiful pass to Diffilippo who made a sensational catch and went over for the score.

Ernie Attore, who captains the Boro boys, stood out with his spectacular passing and ball running.

Winning the game has placed the boys' Club eleven in the playoffs of the Warner Conference. As a hurdle to the title the boys will have stiff opposition this Sunday when they come up against the Saybrook lads of Southeast Philadelphia. The kick-off will be at 2:15 p. m.

MUST PAY BACK MONEY SHE STOLE

Friend of Family Took $70 From Boro Woman

Charged with larceny of money from two Narberth women, Miss Ann Nolan, City Line Ave., was given a 23-months suspended sentence in Montgomery County, last Friday, providing she makes restitution.

The Nolan woman pleaded guilty to charges of robbing Mrs. J. B. Records, 107 Dudley Ave., Narberth, of $70, on October 13 and of Miss Sofia Miesen, 158 Merion Ave., Narberth, of $36 on Oct. 18.

Miss Miesen's money was taken when her hand bag was stolen from the Arcadia Restaurant.

Preliminary hearings were before Magistrate Otto Duer who held the woman for Court on both charges.

Unbeaten Upper Darby Only Big Barrier Between Lower Merion And Football Title; Rivals On Edge For Crucial Game Saturday

Is Lower Merion High School's undefeated football team deserving of ranking with the greatest elevens in the school's history? Or is it just another good team, slightly under championship caliber, that has had the good fortune to roll up huge scores against inferior competition?

These questions will be answered Saturday afternoon when the protégés of Coach Dick Mattis challenge undefeated Upper Darby High School on the latter's gridiron in what shapes up as the climax game of the Suburban Conference football campaign.

For many weeks it has been acknowledged that Lower Merion's acute and only test would come in this game. And even since the first couple games it was evident that if Upper Darby wanted to capture its first grid title and enjoy an undefeated season it would have to blast aside Lower Merion. As a result both teams have been pointing to this meeting, are keyed to a terrific pitch and are prepared to put forth the supreme effort.

The winner will virtually clinch the Suburban Big Six title and will have a strong claim for Suburban Conference honors as well. Should this be Lower Merion it would mean the retirement of the Gunnis Memorial Trophy, emblematic of Big Six superiority, which it won in 1941 and last year.

Their Engagement Announced

The engagement of Miss Elaine Starr to Lieutenant Bernard M. Brophy, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Brophy, of Ardmore, has been announced by Miss Starr's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Caryl Starr, of Narberth. Both are graduates of Lower Merion High School. Lieutenant Brophy is in the U. S. Army Paratroopers.

Ask Council To Help In Keeping Sidewalks Clean

Business men asked the Narberth Borough Council this week to join with them in a campaign to keep the sidewalks of the shopping district as clean as possible.

The proposal was in answer to a letter from Walter Fox, councilman, saying numerous complaints had been received about sidewalks being littered with ice cream cones and other refuse.

Two concrete proposals were made by the business men:

1. That at least six containers be placed at strategic places in the business district for refuse.
2. That if gentle police persuasion proves unavailing that the littering of sidewalks be made a misdemeanor and arrests be made for violations.

Move Started To Have Township Police Borough

Do Not Expect to Cut Costs But Hope for Rigid Law Enforcement; Fear Mergerites May Take Advantage of Scheme

A move to have Lower Merion Township police Narberth Borough for a lump sum is underway.

Several of the councilmen and a few persons, who have heard of the plan, are viewing it with suspicion. They are afraid the old merger ghost is prowling about again.

They do not think that those in back of the move have merger of the two municipalities in mind but they think the mergerites might slip in the back door if it is left open.

Because Lower Merion's police call switchboard is used by the Borough patrolmen the Township police system already reaches into Narberth. But, even so, Narberth retains its own police powers—that is, has supervisory control over its own policemen; hires and fires them through its own police commission; fires their salaries; buys their uniforms and pays for the upkeep of their patrol car. This is quite different from what would happen if Lower Merion policed the Borough itself and sliced the territory up into its own patrol districts. One councilman said it would mean that the Township by exercising police powers in a borough would take over one of the most vital functions of the municipality.

In 1942 it cost the Borough $14,844 for police protection and at the beginning of 1943 councilmen estimated it would cost $16,031.46 for this year. But, strange enough, those pushing the plan do not expect to save money by handing over their police powers.

Their idea seems to be that Lower Merion police would be more hardballed in enforcing the law. They say that the Narberth cops get too well acquainted with their clients and are inclined to overlook traffic violations.

It came up in Council Monday night when the Borough's police committee submitted this request:

"The police committee asks authorization to proceed with negotiations with commissioners of Lower Merion Township toward consolidation of the Narberth police force with that of the Township with the hope that satisfactory arrangements can be made whereby the policing of the Borough will be under the supervision of Lower Merion Township."

Councilmen indicated it was all right for the police committee to go ahead with its negotiations.

On Monday night, Father Vrana, professor of art appreciation at Villanova College, judged the club's exhibitions for the last three months and awarded prizes as follows:

For September: Thomas Davidson, first; C. W. Bickling, second; Albert E. Horsley, third.

Unbeaten Upper Darby Only Barrier

The most optimistic circumstances, says it's anybody's game and that he has his fingers crossed. If we don't play any better than we did at Norristown we'll take a licking," he opined gloomily.

Carleton Metort, Upper Darby coach, won't come right out and predict a Royal victory, but he oozes optimism and says: "We're ready for 'em!"

Lower Merion's seventh victory of the season came at Norristown, 26-0, in just as convincing manner as its predecessors. Frank Basile ran 20 yards for a touchdown in the opening minutes when the Maroon recovered a Norristown fumble on the home team 20, and L.M. followed up this blow with scores of 54 and 58 yards

Schools Must Equip Pupils For Marriage And Home

The interest of Junior High School students in the stability of marriage and the home is far greater than has been led to suspect, and education must equip them for these responsibilities, Robert R. Abernethy, superintendent of the Haverford Township Schools, said Tuesday evening in an address before the Parent-Teachers Association of Haverford Junior High School. He was the principal speaker at the first fall meeting of the new Junior High P-T. A.

"The school of today accepts the fact that children are persons. The good school accepts the facts of the personality of the pupil. It believes that he is a real person, a real human being, even before he reaches the magic age of 21. His problems are just as real and important as are the problems of an adult," Abernethy declared.

"Our attitude toward the growing child has changed. Adolescent problems are largely the result of social changes which have developed so rapidly that we have not as yet adjusted to them. The problems are however, present and must be dealt with wisely if the adolescent is to lead a well adjusted and happy life.

"An understanding of the mental and physical developments of children from 12 to 18 is essential if parents are to meet these problems with wisdom and understanding.

"Modern discipline should be based first on mutual respect, second on a clear statement of philosophy and standards, third, on a long period of early training successfully carried out and lastly on a sense of responsibility for his own actions developed slowly by giving to the child more and more control over his own life as he grows older.

Signal Corps Troops Passing in Review As Bonney Leaves

Signal Corps troops stationed at the old Brookline Square Country Club under the command of Colonel Will V. Parker passed in formal military review Monday, November 1, in honor of departing Captain Edwin C. Bonner who has been assigned to a new station.

Prior to his new assignment, Captain Bonner had been responsible for the military training of these troops. Four platoons were inspected and passed in review to the accompaniment of two Scottish Pipers dressed in full Highland costume. Among the selections played were "Blue Bonnets O'er the Border," "The Road to the Isles" and "Cock of the North," which have so often led the famous Gordon Highlanders to fame and glory. The military precision displayed by the troops was expert testimony as to the intensive training carried on under the direction of Captain Bonner.

Later in the evening, Captain Bonner's fellow officers held a farewell dinner in his honor at the Philadelphia Electric Club in Upper Darby.

"In spite of the fact that there has been so much criticism of modern youth, young people appear to be interested in marriage and to a far greater degree in the stability of the marriage relation and we have been led to suspect. By far the major proportion of them seem to be interested in rearing families. If this is true, education must be provided. This education should cover not only the processes involved in homemaking, such as buying, budgeting and management, child care and cooking, but must cover human relationships as well."

Since the organization meeting September 21, Mrs. William A. McArthur, membership chairman, reports that 382 families have taken out memberships in the association.

Find Fluoride in Water

Helps Build Child's Teeth
Most astounding of recent research work on dental disease has been the study of the relation of the fluoride content of public water supplies to dental decay. Since 1931 several groups have worked on this angle of the dental decay problem, and recently the United States Public Health service reported some amazing revelations from the research by Dr. H. Trendley Dean and his associates.

Fluorine is a gas whose various salts, known as fluorides, are found at times in the drinking water of certain communities. Doctors have known for many years that fluorides in drinking water cause a condition of the teeth called endemic dental fluorosis (more popularly, mottled enamel) if these fluorides are present in over 1.0 part per million gallons.

But what has not been known is that the amount of dental decay in children who have been exposed to such drinking water throughout life is apparently much less in children living in communities where the water supply contains no fluorides. Furthermore, in communities where the fluoride content of water is between 1.0 and 1.5 parts per million gallons the children not only have a relatively small amount of dental decay compared to children of other communities, but mottled enamel is generally not an esthetic problem.

Apparently teeth require traces of fluoride for optimum dental health, although excessive amounts may result in the disfiguring condition known as mottled enamel.

SAFETY PATROLS IN L. M. SCHOOLS

Keystone Auto Club Helped Organize Squads Here

Extending the scope of its public safety activities, Keystone Automobile Club, in co-operation with school authorities and police, has organized and equipped 225 Safety Squad members in 12 Lower Merion township public and parochial schools.

Recent increase in the number of fatal street accidents involving children in Philadelphia spurred the movement for child protection in Lower Merion, Edward P. Curran, Keystone Safety Director, said this week.

"It is felt," he said, "by both police and school authorities that Safety Patrols constitute an effective weapon in child accident prevention and it was agreed that every resource in safety indoctrination should be used now, when traffic is comparatively light, in preparation for combating the increase hazards in post-war travel."

In Philadelphia and vicinity, including parts of New Jersey, the club now is supplying safety material and equipment to 522 schools.

The schools in Lower Merion township now fully organized for safety work are: Ardmore ave., Ashland ave., Bala, Bryn Mawr, Cynwyd, Merion, Merion Square, Our Mother of Good Counsel, St. Matthias, St. Thomas of Villanova and Wynnewood.

WFA RELEASE CANNED FOODS

Approximately 2,790,000 cases of canned peaches, peas, and tomato catsup were released to consumers recently by the War Food Administration. The canned goods probably will not reach retail shelves for several weeks. These foods were a portion of the reserve owned and held by canners to meet possible emergency requirements of the government.

PLENTY OF TURKEYS

The civilian turkey supply, just starting to come on the market, will be almost as large as last year, according to the Department of Agriculture. However, this year's demand will probably be much larger and shoppers will be wise to put in orders early. Men and women on duty in the American armed forces, at home and abroad, will be served a pound of turkey at dinner Thanksgiving Day and will have all the traditional "fixin's."

V-MAIL CHRISTMAS PRESENTS

Relatives and friends still have time to send men and women overseas V-mail notices of war bond gifts for Christmas. The Army Postal Service has assured delivery by December 25 of all V-mail notices sent before December 1. War bonds as Christmas gifts will help to hold down inflationary buying of scarce merchandise, and will be a financial cushion for the service man or woman upon return to civilian life, the Treasury Department added.

RAISE HAMBURGER POINT VALUE

The ration point value of hamburger has been increased from seven to eight points per pound. OPA has also broadened its definition of hamburger to include additional meatier cuts of the lower grades of beef.

NO MORE ISSUE OF BOOKS ONE OR TWO

No more copies of War Ration Books One or Two can be issued by local rationing boards for any purpose whatsoever. All stamps in the two books have expired except Stamp 18 in Book One, for shoes, and blue stamps X, Y, and Z in Book Two, which may be used to buy processed foods through November 20. OPA said the covers of the two books may be thrown away when the stamps have been used or have expired.

RATION-FREE CHILDREN'S SHOES

Some relief from the shortage of youngster's shoes will be provided about the first of the year by a new supply of children's non-leather shoes for general wear to be sold ration-free, OPA has announced. In general, children up to about eight years of age will benefit. The shoes will have canvas uppers and soles made from remnants and heavy woven fabric, reinforced with vulcanized rubber. Shoes of this type larger than misses' and youths' size three will be rationed.

TIRE SITUATION TIGHTENS

Operators of passenger cars may find it impossible to obtain used tires because commercial vehicles delivering essential goods are now eligible to receive used passenger and truck tires of sizes smaller than 7.50-20 to replace tires no longer serviceable. November quotas recently released by OPA for new passenger and truck tires show 30 per cent. fewer for trucks and 14 per cent. fewer for passenger cars.

UNSALTED BUTTER PRICE DOWN

Maximum prices for unsalted butter have been reduced by three-fourths of a cent a pound, which means direct savings to consumers. Other changes made by OPA in the price regulations for butter will act to end inflationary pressures which had arisen. Unsalted butter previously had a three-quarter premium over salted butter.

FRIENDS cities

There has been such a shifting around of the population of this country since the war began that most all of us, by now, either through personal experience or reports of others, are keenly aware of the difficulties of building a new circle of friends in a strange town or city.

To a boy or girl raised in a small town there is often something glamorous about the thought of leaving the cows and the chickens and finding a new home with a back yard full of skyscrapers. But it doesn't take long for them to discover that skyscrapers, theaters and the excitement of city life cannot compensate in any way for the solid friendships back home.

And when city people "escape" to the country, hoping to find peace and quiet and a more satisfactory type of companionship, they often find it impossible to adjust themselves to small town ways and, if they do stick it out, never quite learn to feel like a part of the community.

But whether we move from the city to the country or the country to the city, most of us find that our permanent enjoyment of the new life has little to do with our new surroundings but depends, in a large measure, on the friendships we are able to build up.

NEIGHBORS supply

Cities have always been notorious for their unfriendliness. In a small community a stranger in town arouses the interest of the natives—is called upon by neighbors and invited to their homes. In such a locality a stranger is given every possible opportunity to enter into the town activities and become a member of the local "family."

In a city a new neighbor means nothing to residents, most of whom hardly have a nodding acquaintance with their old neighbors. There are plenty of cases in cities where two families live for months or years in adjoining apartments without knowing each other's names.

The differences in behavior between city and country people should not be attributed to a basic difference in the people themselves. It is more a question of supply and demand.

In the country the supply of potential friends is restricted—so everyone finds it desirable to keep on the best possible terms with the other people of the town. In a city, on the other hand, the supply is unlimited and those living there are inclined to choose friends with care, according to their interests rather than their proximity.

Country people take their friends for better or worse. City people are in a position either to flit from one group of acquaintances to another or confine their friendship to one group and feel no need to recognize the existence of other members of their thickly populated community.

It is sometimes hard to decide which is the better off—the country people who move to the city and have difficulty finding friends or the city people who have moved to the country and have friends inflicted upon them.

Having lived in both city and country I would conclude that in either case it depends largely on the breaks—on the neighbors the cityite happens to find when he settles in the country and on the acquaintances the country person finally makes when he or she moves to the city.

In the city, although it takes longer to find friends, one has the advantage of being able to go through a weeding out process—dropping acquaintances who don't wear well and substituting new possibilities until you find a group which meets your requirements.

In the country, although there is no difficulty in meeting people, you must learn to get along with both those who don't interest you and those who do.

The country life is more conducive to close, lasting friendships while the city offers variety at the expense of solidarity. In the long run there is no question but the country life is more satisfying to the soul, offers greater security and probably more happiness.

But wherever you come from—city or country—a complete change of environment always makes one keenly aware of the fact that there is no place like home.

THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANY OF PENNSYLVANIA

This Week IN WASHINGTON

The walkout of coal miners on the day preceeding election is generally agreed to have hurt the Democrats at the polls, for it is felt throughout the nation that the Administration should never have permitted a second coal mine strike to be considered.

Aware of the fact that there is a great shortage of coal, many people, including government officials, don't understand why the government was so hasty about returning the mines to the operators without first having reached an agreement with mine leaders which would have prevented another strike. And after returning the mines to the owners, when a strike was seen approaching, they don't understand why the government stuck to the formal and laborious proceedings of having the War Labor Board consider the matter, make an unacceptable offer to the miners on the eve of the strike and wait until the strike was in full swing before referring it to the President for action.

With election now in the background, some members of Congress will try to put through drastic legislation to control unions, but, because the election of real importance to most Congressmen comes next year, it is not expected that a worthwhile curb on labor activities will be enacted.

It is being made increasingly clear, however, that higher wages paid to war workers means higher taxes must be paid by the rest of the people, and Congress seems to be making a real effort to reduce rather than increase government expenses. In considering a new tax bill, Congress probably will not agree to the $10,500,000,000 goal asked by the Administration but will try to work out a program where perhaps half of that amount will be raised through taxes and the other half will be provided by a reduction of government expenditures.

Praising the efforts of the House Ways and Means Committee to cut government expenses, Senator George, head of the Senate finance committee, said he believed government expenses could be cut as much as $10,000,000,000.

Conserve Electricity

Uncle Sam urges every patriotic American to avoid wasting electricity. Each little bit that you save, multiplied by thousands of others, will be an important contribution to the nationwide, Voluntary Conservation Program.

Fuel, transportation, vital materials and manpower are needed in the production of electricity. These are also essential to the war effort. So, when we conserve electricity, we are making more fuel, more freight cars and more men available for war work.

Let this be your slogan—Use all the electricity you really need but need all you use!
